IMPORTANT SAFETY NOTICE

TO: UWATEC RETAILERS

DATE: July 15, 2003

RE: UWATEC Smart PRO and Smart COM Dive Computers

On July 17, 2003, UWATEC AG, in cooperation with the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, will announce that the company is voluntarily recalling all UWATEC Smart dive computers. All three models of the Smart dive computers are affected: Smart PRO wrist, Smart PRO console, and Smart COM console. A software programming error in these computers may cause the alert signals to stop working properly, and, in some instances, the screen freezes. If this occurs, inaccurate information is displayed, such as water depth, tank pressure, ascent rate, etc.

The Smart dive computers were sold from February 2002 to July 2003. They are identified by the “Smart” name on the front of the dive computer and on the box.

We request that you take the following steps immediately:

1. Please stop the sale of these units immediately. Review your inventory and promptly return any units you find to SCUBAPRO UWATEC Germany for replacement.

2. Please display the enclosed retail poster immediately upon receipt. It should remain on display for 120 days in a prominent area where the product was sold unless you have a specific area of the store for safety notices.

3. Please inform your customers who own a SMART unit to return them to you. Send these units to us.

Upon receipt of these units, we will send you a replacement Smart dive computer within ninety days or sooner.

We regret any inconvenience caused by this recall, and thank you in advance for your prompt response and cooperation. For questions, or further information, please do not hesitate to contact your SCUBAPRO UWATEC Sales Rep.

With best regards

T. Ille
